Nathalie: Thanks very much for your invitation. IsumaTV looks like a wonderful prospective partner for us. You have some great content there and some outstanding connections with indigenous communities around the world. Informing the world about indigenous cultures has been an important part of our mission since we began more than ten years ago.

I think we will take you up on your offer and explore how we can work together productively. Would it be possible to have a phone conversation about it? I'd like to learn more about Isuma and who you are and what you do and how. Your website is very cool. We do streaming media on The Archaeology Channel (www.archaeologychannel.org) and the way you use the technology seems very smart. We might be able to learn something from you.

Please get back to me with your phone number or call me at 541-345-5538.

Hello Nathalie,

I'm sorry to say the Mount Shasta International Film Festival has ceased due to a lack of start up funds. We tried to get grants etc. but the financial climate made it near impossible. Thank you and I wish you success with Isuma.

Regards,

Jeffrey Winters

Hi, Nathalie,

I would like to talk through the possibility of our 2010 (biennial) and international festival being on Isuma this next year. I am interested in how you invite the filmmakers to permit their work, and your experiences in works that are "in distribution" already agreeing to be on your site (I imagine that in any case we can put on Isuma what we put onto our Youtube channel--trailers, etc--but am always curious about how things are requested and what issues if any arise with the filmmakers. What about fulfillment of DVD orders or downloading--is that something you've done? How does it work financially for the filmmakers?

So let's talk. I think Isuma.TV is a great idea, and a natural venue for the National Museum of the American Indian (NMAI). I'll be checking with my higher powers to make sure that we can proceed, and in the meantime let's make sure I understand what we'd write to our next festival's selected filmmakers about what's being offered to them.

thanks (and say hi to Norm and Zach and Marie Helene)

P.S. - your recent email to Jason Silverman was forwarded to me, which nudged me to contact you--Jason and I co-founded the annual Native Cinema Showcase in Santa Fe, a presentation of the NMAI and Center for Contemporary Arts.

Dear Nathalie and Isuma TV

thank you for your e-mail. We are aware of Isuma TV -website, production company and your amazing films. Thank you so much inviting us to promote our festival. We are happy to do that in the near future. At the moment we don't have anyone working with Skabmagovat, but maybe in the autumn we are able to make a channel. This is a great opportunity for us.

I'll get back to you when I meet my co-workers and we can plan a little bit our channel :)

Sincerely, Suvi

Hi Nathalie

I am familiar with isuma. Could we chat on the phone so that I can ask you some questions about how to do this? We are a non-profit organization so we cannot afford to advertise so I am curious as to what we can do with you.

Thank you for contact me,

Hello Nathalie,

What an amazing website you have! Yes we will login and create an account for Wairoa. How exciting.

This is a unique question: we are have a one-day conference at the Wairoa Maori Film Festival, on Friday June 5th (June 4th your time), and was wondering-- would you be interested in us making a "Skype" connection to you for you all to talk about Isuma tv with us?

I think this would be a fascinating opportunity, we don't have all the technology completed worked out yet but will ensure to do so by June if you are will (and we can sort the time differences out!!!).

All the best, nga mihi mauri ora,

Leo
